Sartori, United States Navy Had a few heroic men been selected for extraordinary achievements and advanced, your petitioner would not have complained; but when a whole batch of younger officers, some of them from seven (7) to nine (9) years his juniors in the service, were thus raised above him, he must feel deeply aggrieved, and as a last resort appeals to your honorable bodies to restore him to his original and proper position on the Navy Register next after Commodore William Reynolds, that he may retire (in June, 1874) in honor and with a heart filled with gratitude to those who are all powerful to lift this injustice from him. Your petitioner does not ask for advancement, but simply for restoration only to the position he was and is entitled to by seniority, by length of service, and by good and faithful conduct. He earnestly solicits that the accompanying bill be passed into a law, as it cannot do injustice to anyone, and nearly all who were placed above...
